

ALGONQUIN ISLAND RETREAT

for Couples Only

Paddle to a cozy island retreat for a romantic adventure on the edge of Algonquin Park. Follow celebrated painter Tom Thomson's trail by canoe to photograph, paint and explore the nearby islands, rivers, forest trails and streams. Bring your fishing rod for great bass and trout fishing on the Amable du fond river. Heat up in a floating sauna and relax in your own private island cabin with stunning lake views from all angles.

Sample Itinerary

Day 1

Rendezvous at the Voyageur Quest office and canoe outfitter at Algonquin Park access point #1. Meet your Voyageur Quest representative and learn or refresh your canoeing skills before paddling out to the island. Relax, unwind and enjoy a sunset dinner for two.

Thomson and the Algonquin Island Adventure

Located in the centre of Kawawaymog Lake, 1.5 km east of Algonquin Access Point #1, the Island Retreat was once a “camp” of Algonquin Park Ranger Wattie. Tom Thomson was also a Park ranger and came to visit Wattie at his camp, the island Retreat, on the west side of Algonquin. Thomson became good friends with Wattie and would visit the island “camp” often as well as his friends in the town of South River. “The Tent” and “Round Lake, Mud Bay” were painted by Thomson while staying at the Island.

Sustainable and Comfortable

While the Island Retreat is “off the grid”, it is comfortable. The master bedroom is on the second floor and offers a beautiful walk out deck with chaises and an outdoor dining table. A wood stove heats the cabin and there is a private washroom with hot shower and toilet (for night time – outhouse available for day time), a fully equipped kitchen, living room, dining table and storm room complete the first floor. The front deck faces west with a small dining table for perfect sunset dining. The north side of the island is rocky and good for swimming. The south side is a beach with 20-foot dock. There is a BBQ for outdoor grilling.

Getting here: The Algonquin Island Adventure is a 3.5 hour drive from Toronto.

No car? No problem!
